Danny Morgan Thinks Knockout Brown Will Put Abe Attell to Sleep.

Georgisht, 1912, by The Press Publishing Co.
The New York World).
TING-A-LING-A-LING — that's the "Heilo? Who's this? Oh, Mor-

And over the wire this comes:
"Helio! Yes, Morgan. Say, going to see Chockout trim Attell? Yes, I said trim Attell-knock him out-it's a pipe, because who has Attell licked in the past alk years, and this is the first time schout has ever fought a man lighter than he is, because he usually fights welters and big lightweights, and when he gets after Attell I'm going to tell him to cut loose as fast as he can, and I don't care if Aitall knows it, and you know Knockout's got the punch, and when he catches Attell and lands it on him H'il be curtains and"---

TES, that's Brown's manager. Talk! Y He can talk a streak of blue lightning black in the face. When he's on the telephone it's useless to try to cut in with a question, for Mr. Morgan talks and talks and talks right straight along without stopping. He seems to take it for granted that it's a feelish waste of time to stop to answer questions, as some time in the course of his remarks he's sure to touch on the subject anyway. But he has talked Knockout Brown into a fortune, and as that is the main thing he's talking for seems to have the right combination.

THERE are all sorts of managers. Some talk and some just saw wood and get the money. There Johnson the first black heavyweight champion of the world. Sam naver was Sam Fitzpatrick, who made Jack much, but he was a terrible out sitter. He'd just sit and sit and sit sitter. He'd just sit and sit and sit around, smiling, until he aggravated the promoters into giving him a match, the promoters into giving him a match. There was always comething myste-There was always something myste-The support follow, around over the major pragarger is in a least to the support follows and the whiteher is thin your fact that for time, and then whiteher is thin your fact the man he haddled grew rith. He had been here to be the support of the rinus about Sam. If he had anything to may he'd look around over his shoulfer and then whisper it into your ear.

especial benefit. Noinn used to meet Harry McCormick, Arthur Shafrer, M. Tone as he counted off the seconds and announce his terms in language more concise than polite. "Take it or leave lit—those are our terms," was his favorite saying. And the tron jaw was no joke. Argument, persuasion, cajolery or threat—nothing could change his determination or his estimate of the worth of his fighter's services. Noten has a few thousand faults, but he was a great. few thousand faults, but he was a great manager. Bat Nelson can look after his own business now better than any other thing less than a thousand dole cross had so much the better of the boxer in the game. But he either stud-lars, even in the most commonplate seven rounds that he was entitled to led Nolan's book during the years they conversation. He has managed Papes were together, or became an expert in and Welgast, both world's champions accounts while checking up on Nolan, and good money makers, and Tom has in either case he can thank Nolan for become accustomed to thinking in big the fact that he is in the capitalist class figures. He amakes dollar cugars and himself.

There's nothing I like more than

B ILLY BRADY. (Beg parden! Believe be insists upon the "William thousand dollars for Wolgast in an off-hand way, and he really does corral a crowds. No sale ever drew such crowds as my Clearance Sale. No hand way, and he really does corral a crowds ever left any store so well A." nowadays) Billy Brady was a great manager when he had Corbett and afterward Jeffries. Billy was a storage battery of norve energy. He was on the jump half the time, and he spent the other half digging up new schemes. It was Brady who tricked Fitzstmones into fighting 'that his yellow dub from Los Angeles,' who was a supposed to come near fainting every time he heard Freekled Bou's name. Brady, too, had Fitzsimmons come into fighting room to scare him just Jeff's dressing room to scare him just Physical Pitness and Reliability Are of More Value Tian Spasmodic Gentus In These Days or Business Activity, According to Prof. sargent, Physical Instructor at Har, and University.

> No. 3-Talks With Prof. Sargent. 64TN great cities where the opportunity for muscular activity is limited by overcrowded conditions," says Prof. Sargent, "the one thing that has arisen as a big help in building up the race, or rather preventing as far as possible the decay of the race, is the keen competition for positions of responsibility. Men of to-day have begun to realize that physical fitness is the main factor in getting a job and keeping it.

"In this day of business activity reliability is looked upon as of more value than gentus. There are rare cases where both are centred in one man, but they are very DO DUDLE ARGENT scarce. No man can be depended upon unless he is phy-sically fit. Drunkenness or other excesses are no longer
